Tremendous opportunity!

Are you the right person to become our next district manager?

Looking for talented executive coach/speaker to join a rapidly growing, dynamic leadership development company that is looking to open offices in Denver, Colorado and Los Angeles, California in 2009!

What we offer you:

- Tremendous growth and income potential.
- Flexible scheduling that allows you to work as a consultant as many hours per week as you prefer.
- Payment of your business expenses, including travel, entertainment, all commercial rent and overhead.
- We handle all of your accounting for you.
- An established brand.
- A proven method of business consulting.
- A state of the art website.
- Coaching from our president, Steve Anderson.
- Twelve workshops that are road tested and ready to go.
- Training in selling, marketing, networking and delivering consulting services.
- A newsletter with over 2200 subscribers that we will tailor for each marketplace.

What we expect from you:

- Character and passion. You must have a deep desire to serve your clients and impact their lives, not just their bottom lines.
- Align your office with our overall Mission, Vision, Values and strategic plan.
- Willingness to hire and train more consultants as you get busy.
- Willingness to speak and network to grow your business.
- Patience and persistence. You can make a great deal of money eventually, but you must have these two qualities to get there.
- Another source of income, initially, so that you can survive while you build your business. Impatience kills the sales process.

Estimated Results that are possible
